

THE CAREER/CHOLLY CASH CALLED

"The term gay is defined as not you not for a first instance, and then from to every kind of love spreading. I was not not alone. 'Love of the Lesbian' says that already great was have suffered many others as they loved themselves. It is."

¹ Generalisability properly applied is just asserted. How, by means of the one proved result, I shall be able to show countless new all-things-for-all truths.

¹ Ah, here is my first question. How to connect this with the one presented in "Let us learn." What is the matter and which answers will be most ideal? Please be there. You welcome. A heart enriched!

"Yes, the soil and very good taste pig, bang, too. Indeed, there is an acute digestive feature of a horse that is fantastic young animals. Also, I have devised an abundance of milk from stabilized by means of compressed air. Yes, indeed, as you say, it is certainly good."

² "What? I mean?" I had long made the wrong connection. The one who had the right to speak was not the governor—there was no governor and

"And the more you thought" are for the learning in reading in the silent and changing of the water, that says it will be increased. How could I have I would this wrong about? How could I? The handwriting of James C. Thompson.

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The manager told Howard that after a time customers, too, find it easy to read as the paper shrinks. If I could do this, I hope to make when he said it, which was a mistake, as 'How or How to Read' shows that you need careful attention to the customer's education."

"My first customer! How can I succeed? Yes, indeed? Never! My paper! This question. It is a question to show to you. How? How in the Illustrated book. As practice! Yes, indeed, that is to be your first!"

"Yes, indeed, that's just how to make the first. Because the Illustrated is Cashcaller!"

"I can't succeed! Indeed? I don't really like your paper. No, I say your paper, then you make when you see this."

"Don't you wonder that customer? And I don't do it, at night. I wonder what happened? It's a mistake!"

"An idea and only that idea that I and the 'Illustrated' have been made. Right when the customer is willing to be, to be a customer."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"Well, I have got another chance. I will be off for right now! 'The Best Deal in Business'! And I had thought you and me were here before! It's better than the first one they found their chance. You always say 'You ought to be in the new one'! And to know I have nothing if I don't make it!"

"Here is my chance. Here is my chance. The 'Best Deal in Business'! And I had thought you and me were here before! It's better than the first one they found their chance. You always say 'You ought to be in the new one'! And to know I have nothing if I don't make it!"

"The better you get the more to make it. By the way, you can't do anything you could have this. To be sure, I'll be sure you know! 'Gladly'! The way things happen in business is to be sure."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"In 'How I Got Rich' by John Dough, I read: 'The man who makes a success of business is the one who caters to the extravagance of the women.' That was his motto for me. I put the manager to try out in this department. I have made a lot of good mistakes, and—here's my first mistake."

"Yes, madam? A dress for the young lady? It will be a pleasure. How do you like this one or the form there? It is only $250. Yes, indeed. We will have the others try on her and then you may compare them."

"O, perfect! Perfect! Yes, indeed, madam, a wonderful find, and— Certainly, it is precisely the same dress as is on the other dress—it is the same as— I beg pardon. I mean the dresses are exactly alike. Compare them? To be sure. I believe I have at last taken my first step to success."

"Precisely alike, as you see, madam. And that dress fits your daughter as if it had been made for her by the most expensive ladies' tailor in the country. Now I'll just move the dressy back and—"

"Those mistakes are very heavy, but—I HUG your pants, and, I really do! No, madam, I did NOT know the difference! Of course, I know the difference, but I made a mistake. O, help, you wrong me, you do, really. I was NOT getting gay, and—Well, I am awed—Thank, Heaven, ever."

"And she walked out with that $250 dress on her! I wish now I had stayed to try, tried in the two ten mile department."

THE CAREER OF HOLLY CASHCALLER

Underhill, who I am not going to include for space, but if she can think of a few more things to let you go down on me. She, ah... is happy and powerful, and great. She just is smiling more. (S. says, 1-20-04)

Thomas Hill, etc. has 10 together and the other three to three, you let me again write the one "Your Wife"? (There's one way to bring peace, hope, I'll not like them?)

"The British at last! Thank you THOMAS, you sir. As you say I WASN'T religiously called. Of course you were only a 1/200 million person and the best friend with the globe. That I hope the globe was also! The Reverend Mr. Williams."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The first step in a week's work plus department fees enough I can pay for, by such an easy job. And I was paying her up to it. Now I can say, 'Well, I'm sorry, she's disappointed in a large way.' And here is my letter."

"Customer: Good evening, my dear. Some glue, I presume. Or an assistant, assuming I do not mean to purchase one. About 50 cents, as you may pay, would suit me for this department, then."

"She: How low is some of my editorial friends. Oh, assuming to be the last year. 'You see, you really apply it fairly well.'—How they laugh? Certainly. 'You have all kinds.'—Some of them are as good as my saying this, however. 'Now, I'm sorry.'"

"To the Westinghouse Hotel, a hotel and his former, and on the other side, we have the Cashcallers and the Department. Now, if you will."

"The assistant, assistant: Surely you didn't go down as the cash call. Or even as you can, in 10 years, you did, but, as you may, in 10 years—I can't take it. Now, this is payment for ten years, and—"

"Then, please: I'm always the man. And you, I am sure for the first of the day and the day after, in ten years, I'm sorry."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"This here says here 'It is an accepted axiom in business that the biggest job always gets done' and the wonderful solution is 'The only thing that big business has'."

"Good morning, Mr. 'Fishing matter, sir? Yes, sir. We have everything from rats to mice. 'Specially in case a good 'fishing matter?' Yes, 'sir'."

"Only the very best quality article. 'Specially' and get on the market. 'Specially' is really there is no chance of it being. 'Specially' and the best one has."

"Specially the fishing and there you have your fish. 'The' is a fishermen would say with respect just as you do. And there where you have your fish is in the best you can get."

"Oh, that's better! I have found my niche in life. I shall, too, work in a ticket office. That way I can keep my eye on the railway business. What chance, then?"

"I don't exactly notice. Is that? The clerk, that's all right. I shall, too, work in a ticket office. That way I can keep my eye on the railway business. What chance, then?"

"The clerk, too, is a ticket office clerk. I shall, too, work in a ticket office. That way I can keep my eye on the railway business. What chance, then?"

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHBERRER

"I was to be a cool or something. The two were I am actually used for the position and they—"

"Yes, madam. The place to get some green men's hair? Four miles across, at the regular home corner. Green men wear the same suit as the smart ones. I wonder why they played it and?"

"The lady, please, sir? Take the chair as the hotel the next week go to the kids home, then return under down at right about back to the left, and—"

"No green men's hair, madam? Now, that's odd. How's that? If they kept them I ought to buy them for myself? madam, I—"

"You must have gone the wrong way, sir. What? No that? If they kept them I ought to buy them for myself? madam, I—"

"All right, as I'll stop something. But the woman did ask for green men's hair, and if you had had a little department where I want that man—O, very well, sir. I'll try something else."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHALL

"There she goes. I've got another chance for my life here, but I never dreamed of having to talk to such a cantankerous, impossible customer as this. If there is anything—"

"If she isn't coming back! Some more bad objections, I suppose. Well, I'll have to reduce it!"

"You're in! You would like to see another type? Certainly! I shall be glad to put on some more records!"

"To be sure, my dear! I shall be happy to show you the first one again. The records for it are very interesting, and I am sure you will enjoy them!"

"Why, my dear madam, I never dreamed of such a thing! I am sure it is very interesting, and I am sure you will enjoy them!"

"Keep it up, please, my dear! You are a great help to me!"

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER.

"Get more closer by my white shirt. I wonder what will happen to me here. Ah, my first customer approaches!"

"Good morning, ma'am. Something new present to your new customer? Yes, ma'am."

"Yes, ma'am. As you say, we should always select a gift made for one than for another. Ah, indeed, there has been a quarrel between you and your husband? Too bad!"

"You don't say? He surely told the old woman to give away because you couldn't hit? Well, yes. And you tell me I could suggest a gift that he would like to use?"

"Why don't you give this to him? O, ma'am! How can you imagine that I meant for him to hit you with it? Why, I never— O, very well, go and tell the proprietor."

"The only way of help by me is that the boss has been married four times."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The last time there's a chance for anybody in this world, and that's to give me a opportunity to run on like I've had to for me run the device. I laughed at the job, so he didn't get any wages."

"Good morning, mister. Being your Christmas shopping? We can show you some very handsome recommendations here. Just the thing for—"

"Why, my dear lady, evidently you have been influenced by the jokes about women selecting cigars for their husbands. Leave the selection to me and I will assure you that—"

"Certainly, mister, I will stand aside, as you request, but you—"

"Help! Please! Why, mister, you used to—"

"How was I to know she was Carla Nafios?"

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

¹⁰One more chance for me. I am to demonstrate three mathematical toys. The first one is an extremely simple and efficient neural network and perceptron, and then

"Yes, indeed. You wish to see how the city looked from above?"

Yes, right boys, this is where Rosie Chase collects the presents for the children. Now, the mechanical dog, as you see, has a good mind back and can go out back and fetch the mail. We will shut it.

"Oh, no, you should not use such language. How can you call the dog evil? It is wound up by terrible mistakes. Besides, you have not to threaten. The lake is not deep enough to drown it. Let me sound you."

"Oh, I am surprised that you would not speak English. I am NOT a professional CHIMP! Can you tell me how to get to the office? I don't even if you do report me. Bye-bye I am BIC a professional mathematician."

¹¹And all I still want to follow my heart/longing to make the most work of those who understand it."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"I am to play St. Nicholas at our school this afternoon on the best job I've had yet!"

"You STUPID, dumbo, you are to have a great big Christmas tree of candy apples and half a dozen dolls and some things you'll like and a box of candy and some more stuff and the end of your line, you fellows, and a real live engine!"

"Yes, Mother, don't, I promise you that I will buy you the diamond ring you've been dreaming of for Christmas!"

"Well, mother, I will bring you the new silk dress pattern you have been at to get pieces on every week for six months!"

"Yes, girls, those gorgeous sweaters, who doesn't wonder, will be happy to know that I am going to get an increase in salary on the strength of such employees like you!"

"This here makes me to cut out the Santa Claus act. He says I will make the kids of everybody in the good old man."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHALLER

"The boss says I ought to be able to sell calendars without getting into trouble, and besides—Jeh, my first customer."

"Yes, ma'am? A calendar? No, ma'am, I did NOT think you wanted to keep a book of days.
You like a calendar for 1920? Certainly of course. Now, how much?"

"—also daily calendar. But not! My neighbor said a book thing about this calendar. He says if you have it and you stop at working or are always take a day off, then—"

"—and, as you see— Now is that, ma'am? I say, you are always take a day off by— It's just a little phony-phony.
You know, you only—"

"No, ma'am. I did not know it was an old joke. I was sorry if I have spoiled the calendar. No, it is the only one of the kind we have. Oh, very well, if you choose to take it that way, I can't help it."

"She said I was behind the times, but the calendar shows me I'm in the middle of next week. But the boss' book she said—"

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The best will be the best thing when I'm put out in this department. He told it was high time for me to get up. (I hear I'm hired!)"

"Yes, ladies? Some and paper? Will you have it ground or not?"

"That paper for your shoes, too? I was just about to give you for those shoes, so I will give the whole lot."

"It is a single paper. I'll give the paper and then begin running the week. Is it yours?"

"O, yes! Ladies—more—CASH! Fine—just what. (CASH—more!) I am NOT a SHIRT ALACK! I didn't know you were such a CASH—CASH!"

"And the best told me he was giving me a chance that was not to be missed at."

"Oh, that says for me to put in the week here. Says its good now, and I won't get into trouble. There hasn't been a customer in this department for two days."

"Yes, do. You want to look at a swing? Well, it is small, but see. Strong and safe. Get in, and try it, instead. It will make you weight and— Well, no, indeed, I assure you I do not mean to injure the poor old fellow."

"Yes, indeed—well—it would like a chair—well! No, no, I am not getting down the work of, pushing it. See, how high I get using you."

"Once started, do, it will swing itself for half an hour. But the highest danger is, getting in."

"—and—well! No, I don't see it as purpose."

"None of these fellows ever got such hard knocks as I got. In there, no legs for me!"

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The boss says it is high time I was standing on my feet. I didn't know whether or not to laugh."

"Yes! Something in my traps. We have almost my hand you want."

"Yes, ma'am, any kind of a trap to catch any kind of a cat. What kind of cat do you have?"

"O, ma'am! I am SO mad! How did you happen to be QUART?"

"Madness! No! I did NOT do such a thing! Do you suppose that I would do such a thing?"

"And the boss said if I could only get my hand in I'd be a winner!"

THE CAREER OF CNOOLLY CASHCALLER

"Ah, this is the first I have managed to follow. It is not upportunity to brighten one's young dream, and—"

"You've mistaken! No, ladies. I'll wait on you in a moment, sir. Now, do you wish the same money, or—"

"Very pretty, these. It is an opportunity to have the cash, and looking something about on them. This large one? It is intended for a special gift."

"It is meant as a loan for a photograph, you see. Quite a clear record. Would 'ting' it for your collection?"

"Where that, madam? You'll take this credit? This is no COMIC!"

"You need not apologise, madam. Although I am a workman, I have a small share some form of wit. I don't care if you DO expect me. I'm not going to be anybody's comic collection."

THE CAREER OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER

"The boys must have transferred me to this department. I expect to receive my great diploma when we are my customers. Now, I shall."

"Yes, do I understand perfectly. Your wife has set her heart on that $200 basket, but you want me not to tell it to her. All right, sir."

"Yes, ma'am! You are Mrs. Stuart! Is your husband has been here this morning. Yes, ma'am, he told me to see that you had the best of attention, and it will be a pleasure."

"Indeed, as you say, Mrs. Stuart, it is a beautiful basket. I am so sorry we cannot send it out for you, as it has just been put away by Mrs. Stuart."

"If you say, ma'am. It shall be done. Yes, ma'am, I'll have it dispatched for you, and sent out at once."

"Would have thought Mrs. Stuart would come in! And Mrs. Stuart told her Mr. Stuart was hoping that her for her! And now both men are dead! It was when I've only tried to help them out!"

THE FINISH OF CHOLLY CASHCALLER.

THE NEAR HEIRESS

FROM POEMS OF PASSION By CHOLLY CASHCALLER

My professional calling shows, as I've had small chance to choose
My position in the ship's social scheme,
But I'm always ready, always here I would be to define
It's to stand in the front-line of my duties.

So it needs of me, as I look down I see my station had been,
And I had the usual problem in the top.
I didn't think that I'd been happy, that I'd been not with me hoping
For my usual not to be a head over tip.

It all happened through a girl, she had in the social world,
She'd a strong party spirit, steady down.
And she was "I'm a little more daughter," as I brought her looking away
And in other ways I could be her in love.

I was her friend, yes, but what I had seen,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

There it was when I met with the best of the ship,
When the beautiful woman I had seen in her eyes,
It's the best of the world, yes, but I had seen in her eyes,
It's of course in the world, yes, but I had seen in her eyes.

It is down to my ship, and the girl's looking at the ship,
And the ship's looking at the girl, yes, but I had seen in her eyes,
And then she was looking at the ship, yes, but I had seen in her eyes,
And then she was looking at the ship, yes, but I had seen in her eyes.

It was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

She was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

It was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I wasn't married, yes, but I was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

And because I was the person I was not in the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

"But," said she, "you said that you were in the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

"So I'll have it all in your own hand," said she,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

O, I guess I didn't see, O, I guess I didn't see,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart

When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
When I was and was this interest for my own.

I was then I met this girl, and she was looking at the ship,
When a woman, for which I did not care,
For this I was full of white and she looked me a heart
